Course fee

£1450.00

The course fee includes all materials and use of our extensive electrical workshops and AM2 preparation area and tuition from experienced electrical assessors plus refreshments throughout the course.

Course content

In general, candidates for this qualification will be responsible for the day-to-day installation and inspection of electrical systems into buildings and structures and the quality of the work they produce, but may have responsibilities for dealing with customers, monitoring and controlling the equipment, resources, with some authority to exercise judgments and make decisions about factors which affect the installation process. Demonstration of safe working practices and procedures are required at all times. Candidates at both levels will have gained an appropriate level of skill ability and acquired sound knowledge and understanding of the relevant techniques, materials, tools and equipment used in order to enable them to carry out the activities, solve related problems, correct any faults within the limits of their authority and ensure the work output meets the required specification standard
